Suburban Residents Have Paid Money for Pictures.

Done a Flourishing Business.

What appears to be a new form of dle has invaded the rural districts in the vicinity of New York.

A man, usually calling himself Thomas J. Applegate, of Red Bank, but some rarying his name and address according to the exigency of the case, sents himself as the agent of "The Guarantee Electric Photographic Company, Limited," of 100 Sixth avenue.

In this capacity he calls at within easy range of the city and offers for sale tickets at 50 cents apiece, entithe purchaser on presentation of o cents to "six electric-burnished" photographs and one large photograph, 16 20 inches in size. If the purchaser not care for the large picture be can have the six cabinet-sized photowithout paying the additions of the principal inducements by "Applegate" is that the purhaser need not go to the studio to sit or his pictures. The studio goes to him.

On each ticket is printed, in addition to the terms of the contract, a notice that the Guarantee Electric Photograph Company desires it to be understood that it does not sell any frames.

A search for the office of the Guarantee Electric Photograph Company at the address indicated on one of the Applegate tickets brought to light the fact that such a concern never existed there. The only occupants of the building are the family of C. Perceval, who keeps a "delicatessen" store on the ground floor.

Next door, however, at 28, is a well-known photographer's gallery. There it was learned that several people had inquired after the "Guarantee Electric Photograph Company."

"A man from Rutherford, N. J., was here some time ago," said the gentleman in charge of the studio, "and showed five tickets which he said had been sold to him for il each. I had never heard of the concern before, and to me the whole affair looks like a swindle.

"The name of the agent on the Butherford man's tickets was not Applement I cannot now recall what it was, but I do remember that the terms were substantially the same as the Applegate tickets."

The latest field which Mr. Applegate has chosen for his operations is in Highlands. Beaside and Atlantic Highlands. Here he seems to have been doing a largor business than anywhere else, judging from the number of complaints that have come in from those places in the

Among those who are anxious to know when the "Guarantee Electric Photograph Company" will drop in to take their pictures is Charles T. Malson, of Seaside, N. J. In a letter to "The Evening World" he requests that a reporter be sent to the Sixth avenue establishment to find out whether Applexate is its yent, and if so whether he is authorised to collect the 50 cents.

Last night he tried to shoot Alderman Robert Ross, but before he could press the trigger the pistol was brushed aside. This made him frantic, and, flourishing a revolver in each hand in the faces of the by-standers, he chased them out of the saloon. Marshal Patterson attempted to arrest him, but the ex-prize-fighter held the saloon for hours, and not one of the hundreds of men who surrounded the building dared to arrest.

Finally, however, he was taken, but only after a fierce fight, in which several of his captors had their heads cut. Golden declared that he would kill Alderman Ross and every member of the City Council, including Mayor Penman.
